Prem Kumar/Parimala Mondal

Tripura, an exclave province, then merged with the Indian Union after independence on 15th October, 1949 and became a Union Territory without a legislature with chief Commissioner. In 1972, and a popular assembly was installed in Tripura on July 1, 1972. Tripura became a full-fledged state on 1st January 1, 1972 and is the third smallest state in the country located in the North Eastern Region.

The state is surrounded by the neighbouring country Bangladesh on the west, south and east. The length of an international border with Bangladesh is about 1,650 km (i.e., about 10 percent of its total border), along which 52 checkposts exist. Around 90-100 km border with Myanmar. About 90% of the 80 percent of the land in the state is occupied by the forest, only 12% have no 100 percent of geographical areas. A large part of this land is upland hills and slopes, with extensive terraced fields in the hilly areas along the land. About 80% of the population lives in the plains.

Chittagong is connected with the rest of the Indian via Padma Bridge or Ghati, which runs through the hilly terrain in Cox's Bazar in Assam followed by major roads till Jorhat region of Assam and then by Assam-Assam highway.
